

GERALD CHAPMAN, MALE RUCK ROBBER, TAKEN

Two-Year Search for Criminal Who Escaped From Atlanta Prison Ends in Muncie, Ind.

TOOK PART IN $1,454,000 THEFT

Fires at Police Officers Who Stop Him While Walking on Street, but Is Over-Powered.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. MUNCIE, Ind., Jan. 19.—Gerald Chapman, notorious robber and escaped convict and alleged murderer, was captured at Muncie, Ind., yesterday afternoon by four Muncie policemen.

This ends one of the most elaborate chases in criminal history. The man had been hunted throughout the country since his escape from the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta two years ago. By verbal threat as well as by his actions, Chapman had indicated that he would not be taken without gun. He was not, but the best of plans fail. His automatic pistol, always ready to be drawn when capture threatened, missed fire. And when the weapon failed him a detective leaped on Chapman's back from the running board of an automobile. When Chapman was jerked to his feet handcuffs were upon his wrists.

In his criminal career Chapman has been hunted by all varieties of representatives of the law—men in scores of cities and towns, prison guards, American Express Co. agents and Pinkerton men. The postoffice inspectors were the most persistent. Three of these, James Doran, Joseph Vick and Frank Shea, have been only a few jumps behind him for the last two years and to these belongs much of the credit for his capture, for they trailed him to Muncie 10 days ago.

Captured by Policemen. Ten days ago Doran and Shea got word that Chapman was in Muncie. They verified the fact that Chapman had been seen there and with Inspector Kelly, stationed at Muncie and the local police, after plastering Indiana with placards bearing the robber's picture. Motor Cycle Police, Collins and Detective Goodpasture saw Chapman on the street a block from the courthouse just before noon yesterday. Collins watched him while Goodpasture went after Captain of Police Fickett and Detective Brown.

The four then got into an automobile and overtook Chapman. Capt. Puckett leaned out and asked, "Does Mr. Smith live along here?" Chapman turned around, then he whirled with a pistol in his hand. It missed fire. Collins leaped on his back.

Chapman, admitting his identity, told the men he did not blame them for arresting him, but cursed the "man who turned me up for blood money."

In a small grip and in his pockets police found $5000 in currency, $1000 in Government bonds, jewelry valued at $1000, a steel saw and a pint of nitroglycerin.

"Don't let that grip around," he warned the policeman. "There's enough soup in there to blow up the courthouse."

Accused of Murder. When he was questioned about the most serious charge made against him—the murder of James Skelly at New Britain, Conn., in October—he was silent. Skelly was killed when with two other policemen he tried to arrest a man robbing a department store. For this crime a murder charge is hanging over Chapman at Hartford.

Inspector Claranah expressed the belief that Chapman and his friend, George Anderson, who participated with him in the $1,454,000 mail truck holdup at Broadway and Leonard street, New York, in 1921, and who escaped from Atlanta a few months after Chapman did, were preparing to set up in business as counterfeiters.

Claranah said that it has been established Chapman had been blowing safes in New England and various towns and cities in the Middle West in the last year.

His Career of Crimes. Chapman, who is now about 35, looks the part of the "Professor" or the "Count," as he has been nicknamed. He first came to public notice in 1912, when he was sentenced to Sing Sing for 10 years for grand larceny. He was paroled in 1919. Two years later, Oct. 24, 1921, came the holdup of a mail truck at Broadway and Leonard street. In this robbery Chapman and his accomplices obtained jewelry, cash and securities of a total value of $1,454,120.

Chapman, George Brown and Charles Lambert went into hiding at Lake Ronkonkoma, but on Long Island, but that didn't suit them. Chapman returned to New York, bought an expensive automobile and began to live at the rate of $1000 a day. He had the reputation of being both generous and square with his underworld associates. Thus the police and post-office inspectors were handicapped from the first in the search which was started for him. He didn't look the part of a bandit.

Chapman was captured after the Leonard street holdup because much of the loot was of a nature difficult to convert into cash. With his cash running short he and his associates went to Niagara Falls for new crimes.

Five weeks after what Lambert called "our big job," they held up an American Express truck at Niagara Falls and got $70,000 in travelers' checks. They then robbed the jewelry store of Isaac Throb in the same city. Next they robbed a jewelry store in Birmingham and the postoffice at Fulton, N. Y., after which they returned to New York, planning to escape to Europe.

Eight months after the mail truck holdup, Chapman and his accomplices were captured in the luxurious apartment they occupied at 12 Gramercy park. One of the travelers' checks stolen in Niagara Falls had been traced directly to the apartment. Chapman was found with a gun in his hand, and there was also found a small arsenal, including several automatic pistols.

The trial resulted in a sentence of 25 years in Atlanta penitentiary. But he spent only a year in the prison. On March 3, 1923, with another prisoner, he overpowered a guard in the hospital ward, saved through a steel grating window, slid 20 feet to the ground on a ladder made of bed sheets, climbed two high walls and made off to the country. He was surrounded and captured after a fight in which he was shot three times. He was put in a hospital at Athens, Ga., and although he was guarded by prison attendants, he escaped on March 27, donning the uniform of a guard and sliding out of a window on a rope of bedclothes.

Two days later a nurse told a guard she heard a noise in the basement. She and the guard went down and saw Chapman hiding. The guard placed him under arrest, but the nurse became hysterical and flung her arms about the guard's neck. When the excitement subsided it was found Chapman had walked out.

WILL FIGHT TRIAL OF GIRL SLAYER AS ADULT

Public Defender Says Law Demands Dorothy Ellingson Go Before Juvenile Court.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19.—Dorothy Ellingson, 16-year-old slayer of her mother, wilted by the restraint of four days in prison, has begun to realize for the first time the enormity of her crime while plans for her defense are being made.

"Public Defender Frank J. Egan arranged with the defendant a series of conferences in which details of her fight to stave off a long prison sentence will be outlined.

"There will be no array of attorneys and scientists," said Egan. "The County has no money to employ these, and if I am going to defend Dorothy there must be no defense fund. That is because I am permitted to handle only the cases of persons without funds."

Egan said he would strive to have the girl's preliminary hearing take place in Juvenile Court and not in Police Court.

"The girl is 16 years old," Egan said. "There is no question about her age, and we can prove she will not be 17 until April 1.

In this case, and there is no reason to make an exception here. The law states cases against persons under 18 years of age shall be tried in Juvenile Court. The other courts have no jurisdiction."

At the same time the District Attorney was determined, he said, to bring the girl into Police Court Thursday. If the girl is taken into Police Court and there her age determined, as under 18, the case might be referred to the Superior Court, where Dorothy would receive a long prison sentence if convicted. Should Defender Egan win his fight to keep the case in Juvenile Court, the matricide defendant, if found guilty, would be sent to the girls' school at Ventura and kept there until 23.

Seeking a motive for the girl's crime, police said they would investigate a statement by Policewoman Kathryn Sullivan that she received a telephone call from Mrs. Ellingson the night before she was killed, making an appointment for the following day. The officers believed it possible that Dorothy had entered the home that night just as Mrs. Ellingson was telephoning Mrs. Sullivan. Egan broke down the thought that she was to be reported to police, the girl became enraged, it was the officers' theory, and grabbed her brother's pistol, shooting her mother as she was dressing to leave the apartment with Mrs. Sullivan.

Family History Investigated. The girl's family history is being closely investigated. Her father died there was evidence of insanity or mental disorders in his family or in that of Mrs. Ellingson, but Earl, her brother, who with her father became reconciled with Dorothy after a judgment at the coroner's inquest, declared "mental illness" might be Dorothy's defense.

Invited to attend religious service in the prison Sunday, Dorothy refused and remained tearful and sullen at the side of Policewoman Sullivan.

Bowed with grief, the father and brother visited the girl during the day. Dorothy asked her father to press and patch a small hole in her "extra street suit" and her brother, at the girl's request, promised to get her a copy of Tennyson's poems.

DAWES PLAN SUITS NEW GERMAN CABINET

Chancellor Luther Expects Other Signatories to Match "Loyalty."

By the Associated Press. BERLIN, Jan. 19.—Loyal fulfillment by Germany of the London agreement on the Dawes plan and strict enforcement of the laws dictated by it are among the pledges contained in the program announced by the new Government headed by Dr. Hans Luther as Chancellor, to the Reichstag tonight.

Germany, on the other hand, says the pronouncement, expects an equal measure of reciprocal loyalty on the part of all the signatories to the London agreement.

The non-evacuation of the Cologne area was declared by the Chancellor to be in violation of the letter and spirit of the London agreement and the new Government therefore, was in full accord with the protest lodged by its predecessor.

The Luther Government proposes negotiations at the earliest date possible for the purpose of reaching a settlement of this issue, which the Chancellor declared was indispensable to internal political and economic peace and to the maintenance of amicable foreign relations.

In the opening sentences of his inaugural address Dr. Luther declared any attempt to alter the republican constitution by force or other illegal methods would be resisted and treated as high treason.

BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT FOR $200,000 GOES TO TRIAL. Action That of Miss Ella M. Campbell Against Charles P. Senter, Cotton Broker. The suit for $200,000 for breach of promise against Charles P. Senter, wealthy cotton broker, by Miss Ella M. Campbell, proprietor of a beauty shop at 619 Hamilton avenue, went to trial this afternoon before a jury in Circuit Judge Hamilton's court.

Miss Campbell, who is 45 years old, charges in her petition that Senter made love to her and first proposed marriage to her in May, 1923. Since that time, she alleges, he has refused his proposal some 13 times—usually on the first Sunday in September. Then came a first Sunday in September in the year 1919 and Senter not only let it pass without renewing his vows, but told her a day or so later that he did not love her and had no intention of taking her in marriage, according to her petition. On Aug. 4, 1923, she filed the suit against him, charging that he caused her mental anguish and great humiliation.

Senter, who is 55 years old, is the president of the Senter Commission Co., and lives at 1 Beverly place. He has entered a general denial of her allegations.

9 CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH IN 2 FIRES. By the Associated Press. ELK RIVER, Minn., Jan. 19.—Five children were burned to death when their farm home, eight miles from here, was destroyed by fire yesterday. The children ranged in ages from 1 1/2 to 7 years. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bedoch, the parents, escaped with severe burns.

The children, all girls, huddled together in a corner of the house, met death while their parents, whose efforts to save them were unsuccessful, ran to the home of neighbors while he drew revolvers while he descended through a building next door. As he emerged into the alley, each fired two shots and the youth fell dead. One bullet had entered his shoulder, piercing to the lung and another had entered his leg.

The youth was James Miles of 1502 Papin street, who had just been sentenced, in Juvenile Court, to two years in Reformatory for a burglary. He was about to go to the jail with Deputy Sheriff Louis Baumgartner when he broke away and darted across Fourteenth streets into the alley. Cooper and Sanders, who were walking south to the jail saw him run and started in pursuit.

DETECTIVES ON ROOF KILL FLEEING NEGRO

19-Year-Old Youth Had Escaped From Deputy After Getting Two-Year Term.

A 19-year-old negro who fled from a Deputy Sheriff at the door of the city jail was shot and instantly killed shortly before noon today by two negro detectives who fired from the roof of a three-story building at Fifteenth and Walnut streets as the youth ran through an adjoining alley.

The detectives—Sergeant Ira Cooper and Detective Henry Sanders—had chased the fugitive by a circuitous route to the roof of the building where they waited with drawn revolvers while he descended through a building next door. As he emerged into the alley, each fired two shots and the youth fell dead. One bullet had entered his shoulder, piercing to the lung and another had entered his leg.

The youth was James Miles of 1502 Papin street, who had just been sentenced, in Juvenile Court, to two years in Reformatory for a burglary. He was about to go to the jail with Deputy Sheriff Louis Baumgartner when he broke away and darted across Fourteenth streets into the alley. Cooper and Sanders, who were walking south to the jail saw him run and started in pursuit.

Three shots were fired as Miles ran west through alleys and across lots. At the northwest corner of Fifteenth and Walnut streets he darted into a vacant three-story house with the detectives close behind. As they entered they heard the trap door on the roof slam down. When they reached the roof they saw Miles pass through another trap door in the roof of the two-story building next door. It was too far for them to jump, so they knelt at the coping and fired as the youth emerged from the back door of the house.

Miles and another youth were caught in the act of holding up a grocery at 1428 Papin street Jan. 6 when police arrived on a tip that the place was to be robbed. Miles had a revolver.

His escape today occurred at almost the exact spot where at the same hour last Tuesday Baumgartner shot another prisoner, Horace McGee. McGee had liberty for a few days and was captured Saturday night with other youths in an automobile with diversware taken in a burglary. He had just been sentenced to two years in Booneville when he escaped.

Under the present system, Otto said, defense attorneys sit back and say nothing when the State's instructions are submitted to the jury by the Judge, and then claim error in those instructions on appeal to the Supreme Court.

MOOSE ORDERS LOCK HORNS IN LEGAL COMBAT

White Organization Seeks to Prevent Use of Name "Moose" by Negro Lodge.

DEPOSITIONS TAKEN BY COMMISSIONER. The Paramount Progressive Order of Moose and the Grand Lodge of the World, Loyal Order of Moose, locked horns in legal combat at a taking of depositions before Special Commissioner Rossford in the Times Building.

It was a question of who is really a moose, or rather, who has a right to call themselves moose? The Loyal Order, which is for white men, is seeking to enjoin the Paramount Progressive Order, which is for negro men, from using the word "moose" in its title and from employing the emblems, regalia or ritual of the white organization.

Director-General H. A. Stewart had hustled Saturday from a building job over on Easton avenue—when he is not mousing he is a carrier—to defend the Paramount Moose.

"What Is a Moose?" "And what is a moose, anyway?" he demanded of J. E. Turner, counsel for the white moose. "A moose is an animal, isn't it? How do you all get exclusive right to call yourselves moose? You're no more moose than us colored men. The moose didn't give neither of us a right to use their name. That's a cinch."

Attorney Turner would have no quibbling. His clients had charged that Stewart, as founder of the Paramount Moose, got the idea from the Loyal Order of Moose. He proceeded to examine the witness on these points.

"Where did you get the name 'Paramount moose'?" he wanted to know. "Out of my head," the witness replied. "A moose is a big animal like a deer. I figured we would call ourselves the biggest moose."

"Were to Be Over All." "Paramount means over all, doesn't it?" "Well, that's what I meant," the witness waved his hands. "Our moose were to be over all."

The witness was asked if he had written the ritual of the Paramount Moose. Yes, he had. Turner then wanted to know if he had not copied it from the ritual of the Loyal Moose.

"No, sir," denied the founder of the negro Moose. "I got that ritual out of my own head. That is—I got some from the Bible."

"And some from some place else?" "Well, I got some from the colored K. O. P. and some from the colored Masons. I didn't get a bit from the white Moose."

He denied that his organization was telling prospective members that it was a negro branch of the white organization or that negro members would have the benefits of the Moose homes at Mooseheart, Ill., and Moose Haven, Fla. To all other questions he replied: "Out of my head."

A $200 Funeral. Grand Dictator F. W. Johnson, the next witness, supported his chief in all statements made by him. He stated the fact that members of the Paramount Moose pay $4 initiation fees and that $1.50 of it goes to Director-General Stewart. He said the dues were $15 a year and that the members got 15 weeks sick benefits and a $200 funeral. He added that about 1000 members were enrolled.

Attorney Turner then decided to plunge into the financial affairs of the Paramount Moose. He summoned W. O. Robinson to the stand.

"You are Supreme Treasurer?" was the first question. "I was," replied the witness, with an embarrassed glance at Director-General Stewart. "Now I reckon I'm Past Supreme Treasurer."

Some Controversy. This caused some consternation among the Paramount Moose. "When you gave up the treasury, ship how much money was in the Supreme Treasury?" Turner queried.

MOOSE ORDERS LOCK HORNS IN LEGAL COMBAT

White Organization Seeks to Prevent Use of Name "Moose" by Negro Lodge.

DEPOSITIONS TAKEN BY COMMISSIONER

Past Treasurer of Negro Body Says Chief "Busted Up Supreme Lodge" and Took Over Funds.

The Paramount Progressive Order of Moose and the Grand Lodge of the World, Loyal Order of Moose, locked horns in legal combat at a taking of depositions before Special Commissioner Ross-kop in the Times Building.

"About $60," said Past Supreme Treasurer Robinson.

"That was the most we ever had when I was treasurer," said the witness.

How were you disposed as treasurer?

The witness gave another worried glance in the direction of Director-General Stewart.

"Busted Up Supreme Lodge." "Well," he said, after a pause, "yes, I was supreme treasurer of the supreme lodge. Director-General Stewart took it into his head he wasn't going to have a supreme treasurer any more. So he busted up the supreme lodge and started another called the grand lodge. He

Ousted Heroine of Jericho Demands Her $79 Back

Sister Davis Files Petition in Court as Result of Quarrel in Funeral Benefit Organization Over Some of Her Other Memberships.

"I can't even get my death benefit out of the sisterhood by expiring," Mrs. Charlotte Davis, sometime sister of the Heroines of Jericho, a society of negro ladies, said as she dolefully rocked to and fro in her room at 2901 Laclede avenue. "I can't even get it by expiring."

That is why Sister Davis, in an effort to get what she couldn't hope to get even by passing the final barrier, has placed her case in the hands of her attorney.

The sisterly difficulty dates back to 1923, when the Heroines of Jericho held their State convention in St. Louis. At that time, according to Mrs. Davis, Sister Zenobia Shoulders, the Grand Matron of the Heroines, rose up in meeting and declared that any Heroine who belonged to the Missouri Chapter of the Colored Eastern Star, could no longer be a Heroine of Jericho, and that included Mrs. Davis.

Grand Matron Shoulders teaches Room One at the Montgomery School, so there was no doubt that she knew what she was talking about.

At that memorable May day session were more than 30 Heroines who likewise were Eastern Stars. They held a hasty conference, and decided that even if they no longer remained Heroines of Jericho, they would remain common every-day heroines, and not forsake the Ancient Order of the Colored Eastern Star of Missouri which had blossomed and blossomed in this state for 35 long years.

Ever since that time these 30 odd ex-Heroines have remained loyal. They were given until last November to change their collective titles. Not one weakened. Not one betrayed her star of the East.

So in November they were automatically ejected from the women of Jericho, and the possibility of $75 for funeral expenses and $75 for the bereaved survivors, dished out of the coffers of Jericho, slipped away on noiseless toes like an evanescent dream.

The Why of It All. Now the uninitiated will wonder why the Heroines of Jericho should

None of the witnesses could say just who ran the grand lodge or the grand treasury, but most of them ventured, "I expect the Director-General had it."

SENATE REFUSES TO TAKE UP GUN ELEVATION Declines to Consider Question of Altering Battleships By Vote of 45 to 22.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—By a vote of 45 to 22 the Senate refused today to consider the question of the elevation of the guns on the 12 American battleships, in order to give them equal range with ships of the British battle fleet.

The vote was on a motion by Senator McKellar (Dem.) of Tennessee, to suspend the rules and consider his amendment to the naval appropriation bill directing the gun elevation, which is opposed by President Coolidge on the ground that it might result in a renewal of competitive naval armament.

Only one Republican—Johnson, of California—supported the motion, while eight Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite—Shipstead of Minnesota—voted against it. A two-thirds majority would have been necessary to suspend the rules.

The Democrats opposing the motion were Bruce, Caraway, Dill, George, King, Neely, Ralston and Swanson.

Chicago. CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—The United States Railroad Labor Board in a decision today granted an annual increase in wages of approximately $3,740,000 to clerical service employees on 43 railroads in all sections of the country. The employees affected do not include those clerical service employees taken care of in a decision of the board a year ago.

The increase ranged from 1 to 2 cents an hour for the classes included, and grew out of a failure of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers and Station Employees to agree with the roads.

Among railroads affected are the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Illinois Central, Kansas City Southern, Minneapolis & St. Louis, Missouri Pacific, New York, Chicago & St. Louis, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific systems.

EGAN TIES IN PRISON DUB RENDEZVOUS 'GRAND AND OLIVE'

When Relieved of Duties, They Meet in Yard and Talk Over "Good Old Days" Here.

RELATE EXPERIENCES AT LEAVENWORTH

All Say They Will Do Their Time in Patience and Seek to Gain Merit Marks.

"Dinty" Colbeck and four of his Egan gangsters, related to a Post-Dispatch reporter some of their experiences in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., during a "reception" held from 2 to 4 p. m. yesterday at the city jail, where relatives and friends took a last farewell of the convicted men.

As has been told, they are under 25 and 15 year sentences for two mail robberies, one at Staunton, Ill., May 26, 1923, and the other at Fourth and Locust streets, April 2, 1923. These sentences will run concurrently.

Meet Daily at Prison. After lunch each day and at other times when relieved from routine duties, they meet at a point in the prison yard that they call "Grand and Olive." This is the power house, at the corner of which is a lamp post and past which runs the prison railroad track. Here they assemble daily, lean against the lamp post and swap yarns of the "good old days" in St. Louis—days that are no more.

Prison life does not appear to have taken toll of any, except "Red" Lauman, former president of Teamsters' Union, Local No. 6, according to one of the gang, who says that "Red" is acquiring that faraway look that one observes in the stolid gaze of the two-time losers—men who have served more than one term in prison.

Lauman is tall and angular, and one of the gangsters remarked good-naturedly that his neck is lengthening at an alarming rate from trying to look over high prison walls "to see the gay world outside."

"Oh, boy," exclaimed another, "you never saw so many lawyers as we have down there. About half of those prisoners are going back to court for over law books. Some of them think they know more Federal law than our good friends, Judges Fitzhenry and Paris."

"Statutes by the Yard." "One bird that can quote statutes by the yard haunted me for days, setting forth the errors in my case and how the law could be applied to make a boob of the Judge and set me free."

"Finally I inquired how much time he had on his hands, and when he told me 45 years, I assured him that while I had the utmost respect for his legal learning, I would be obliged to him if he would stop annoying me and get himself out."

"Big Tim" Murphy, the Chicago politician, who is doing four years for complicity in a Chicago mail robbery, always has some fine legal advice at his finger tips for the newcomers in Leavenworth, said the Eganites, but they pointed out that he also is in prison and not in a courtroom.

"Plan Good Behavior." All said they would do their time in patience and gain all the merits possible, so that if they become eligible for parole they may become free men.

The lateness of the verdict Saturday evening, when the jury sent the Eganites and Roy Tipton, Leo Cronin and "Feather-edge" Schmidt, Cuckoo gangsters, to 15 years each for the $260,000 mail robbery at Fourth and Locust streets, made it inconvenient to attend commitments for Tipton, Cronin and Schmidt. These will be made out today, and the prisoners will be taken to Leavenworth tonight.

Their attorneys believe the Circuit Court of Appeals will grant a new trial in the $55,000 Staunton mail robbery case, in which the men received the 25-year sentences, because of alleged errors in this case. All the gangsters are fervently clinging to this hope.

SPLINTER IN PALM OF HAND RESULTS IN MAN'S DEATH Clarence Thompson, 25, Was Injured Dec. 23—Dies of Blood Poisoning.

A splinter penetrating the palm of the left hand resulted in the death of Clarence Thompson, 25 years old, of 829 Lynch street, at Josephine Hospital Saturday.

Thompson was employed as a foreman for the American Express Co., Twentieth and Eugenia streets. On Dec. 23, while handling some boxes at the company's offices, a splinter entered his hand. He expected it at the time and applied home remedies after work. Later the wound swelled and when he consulted a doctor he was ordered to the hospital. Blood poisoning developed.

Missing St. Louisans Are Located by Radio

Messages Sent Out by K S D Resulted in Finding Relatives of Two Families Here.

Three recent instances in which Station KSD, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, was the agency in locating persons whose whereabouts was unknown to friends and relatives have shown the effectiveness of the radio for this sort of service.

In each case the broadcast message won out in competition with the mail and the telephone.

The reason for the superiority of radio in ferreting out the lost and missing lies in the fact that the broadcast message reaches a vast number of radio listeners, any one of whom may have the desired information, whereas a telegram or a letter reaches only the one to whom it is addressed. If there is no clue to start with, these means of communication are of no use.

But like the town crier of old, though with much more extensive field, the voice of radio calls "Hear Ye!" and in a majority of instances the lost is quickly found.

The Meyers family of three brothers and one sister, all more than 70 years old, was separated, Henry, 81, lived in Steelville, Mo., Louis, 73, and Mrs. Sarah Guiley, 77, a widow, were in St. Louis. The other brother, Charles, 70, was an itinerant jeweler, who had left St. Louis months before and might have been anywhere in the United States.

CHAUFFEUR HELD FOR DEATH OF NEGRO

Coroner's Jury Returns Verdict of Criminal Carelessness Against Driver.

Dead. Samuel White, 50, a negro, 211 South Twenty-second street.

Injured. Joseph Haas, 25, of 1613 Dolman street, fractures of the left shoulder and nose and lacerations of the scalp.

Rex E. Roberts, 30, of 5330 Delmar boulevard, body bruises and lacerations of the head.

Austin Peck, 28, of 5330 Delmar boulevard, body bruises and lacerations of the head.

Richard Wainwright, 31 years old, a taxicab chauffeur, was held for criminal carelessness today by a coroner's jury investigating the death Saturday night of Samuel White, 50, a negro, of 211 South Twenty-second street. The jury recommended a bond of $10,000.

White died at City Hospital of a fractured skull shortly after being struck by a Yellow taxicab driven by Wainwright at Pine boulevard and Garrison avenue. Two negroes who witnessed the accident testified the machine was going at a fast rate of speed and dragged White more than 150 feet after striking him.

Wainwright, who told police the negro stepped in front of his machine, eastbound, while it was going about 20 miles an hour, made no statement at the inquest, on advice of counsel.

White's death was the eighth automobile fatality of the year as compared with 15 in the same period last year.

The driver of a Ford touring car which sped on last night after striking Joseph Haas, 25, a baker, of 1613 Dolman street, as he was waiting for a street car at Fourteenth street and Lafayette avenue, is being sought by police.

Haas is in a serious condition at city hospital suffering fractures of the left shoulder and nose and scalp lacerations.

Rex E. Roberts, 30, a salesman of 5330 Delmar boulevard, and Austin Peck, 28, of the same address, suffered body bruises and lacerations of the head and face last night when Roberts drove his machine into a stone wall at Osceola street and Virginia avenue. Osceola street ends at Virginia avenue and the stone wall is around Cleveland High School. Roberts was arrested and charged with careless driving and driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Gen. Pershing and party arrive in Buenos Aires.

Cross Andes in Journey From Chile on Mule Back and in Lake Boats.

By the Associated Press. BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 19.—After a week's journey from Valdivia, Chile, Gen. John J. Pershing and party have arrived here.

The large crowd at the railroad station cheered as Gen. Pershing and his aids, attired in full uniform, left the train yesterday.

Minister of War Justo and other members of the Cabinet, numerous army officers, the Argentine Ambassador to the United States, Hon. Oscar Pueyrredon, and a delegation from the Buenos Aires post of the American Legion greeted him.

The General began at once to fulfill an elaborate program of entertainment and sightseeing arranged for him. He called first on President de Alvear, and at his invitation attended the races.

He dined at night with the former Ambassador at Washington, Thomas Le Breton.

Gen. Pershing was warmly welcomed at the remote places where he made stops in his journey. Picturesquely attired sheep ranchers and natives gathered at the station and cheered and waved, while in the larger towns the authorities conducted the General to the city hall for a more ceremonious welcome, never failing to invite him to partake of some kindly fluid with which he and the President of the United States were toasted.

In his journey across the Andes the General passed over four lakes, on one of which he was conveyed in a motorless launch, towed by two row boats, and he traveled between the lakes on mule back.

A visit was paid to the 25,000-acre ranch, owned by an American, where Gen. Pershing tasted his first cup of yerba mate (herb tea), and danced the Argentine tango with the daughter of his host.

French Catholics Fight Reds.

Two Factions, Far-Left, Come to Blows at Aix-en-Provence.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, Jan. 19.—Catholic meetings throughout France in protest against the Government's religious policy were continued yesterday and at Aix-en-Provence a clash occurred between adherents of Gen. De Castelnau and the National Catholic Federation on the one hand and the local Communists on the other.

The Catholics held a procession during which they chanted anti-Communism, while the Communists also paraded, singing the International and other revolutionary songs. The two factions came to blows as the Catholics were wending their way toward the Cathedral. Reinforcements of police prevented the incidents from becoming serious.

Monsieur Riviere, Archbishop of Aix, took an active part in Gen. De Castelnau's meeting, which called for "a close union of the Catholics for the defense of their rights and liberties."

PARKER MOVES TO CRUSH OPPOSITION TO GOOD ROADS

In Naming House Highways
Body, Speaker Requires Pledge Against Bills That Would Weaken Program.

STANDS BEHIND
THE COMMISSION

E. A. Duensing of Concordia, Long a Hard Worker for Good Roads,
Chairman of Committee.

BY CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 19.—Speaker Parker of the House has taken an extremely practical course to prevent the possibility of legislation upsetting the plans of the State Highway Commission for the completion of the 7600-mile highway system as at present laid out. In selecting a roads and highways commission of the House, he obtained a pledge from each of 24 members before appointment that he would oppose any bill which would weaken the road laws or would embarrass the commission in carrying out the plans formulated more than three years ago. It may be taken as reasonably certain that any "mud road" bill will die in the committee.

Twenty-two members of committee are from counties south of the Missouri River, a section of the State which has had leadership in the good roads movement. Only 12 members are from north of the river, a section from which most of the opposition to good roads has come in previous Legislatures. The tier of counties along the Iowa line which has produced the most bitter foes to the effort to obtain the construction of a State-wide road system, has only one representative on the committee.

Painter's Plan to Die.
While the scheme of Senator Painter, Senator Farris and others to amend the law to require the members of the Highway Commission to be residents here, was never taken very seriously in legislative circles. The measure, even if it passes the Senate, will find a quiet resting place in the House Committee. It generally was understood here that the suggestion of the Senator, which was given prominence in some newspapers, was merely a feeler sent out by them to see whether it would attract support from over the State. They were merely testing out public sentiment and attempting to use the columns of newspapers in the test.

The reaction has not been favorable to the proposal, and it is doubtful if it is heard of again, though possibly such a bill will be introduced. After Speaker Parker's action it would appear that the Highway Commission can go right ahead with its plan just as if a Legislature was not in session.

E. A. Duensing, Chairman.
The county in which each of the commissioners resides has at least one member of the committee, while Jackson County, Chairman Gary's home, has two. Speaker Parker, in looking about for a chairman, chose E. A. Duensing of "Lafayette" County. Duensing has been a good roads booster for many years, has had an active working part in every road movement in his part of the State and is a strong supporter of the Highway Commission and the highway system.

"There is nothing to conceal about it," Parker said today. "When I came to pick the Roads and Highways Committee I picked one that would support the commission and would not attempt to embarrass it. I obtained a personal promise from every man I appointed that he would sit tight on bills if any were introduced which had for their object the wrecking of the law or the embarrassment of the commission. If the law needs strengthening in any place, here is a committee that will be right on the job, too, to prevent harmful bills getting by."

In addition to Duensing, the Republican members of the committee are: Edward H. Winter of Warren, George W. Cross of Cape Girardeau, Joshua W. Vincent of Linn, Frank A. Francis of Sikeston, H. Clay Day of Conway, John W. Campbell of Stockton, Fred Spearman of Iberia, Edgar Riedinger of St. Louis, Ora P. Murphy of Almartha, Eli H. Wherry of Kansas City, O. P. Moody of Pierce City, W. P. Robertson of Caruthersville, Charles A. Young of Cape Girardeau, George O. Reed of Springfield, T. S. Whitte of Walnut Grove, F. B. Meyer of Bay, Thomas F. Montgomery of Bolckow, John F. Rees of Wellsville and Emma R. Knell of Carthage.

The Democratic members are: Emmett J. Grant of Bachelor, Rufus J. Miller of Dearborn, Alvin Whitte of Garden City, W. R. Peck of Salem, Wyman W. Harper of Nevada, T. A. Davidson of Memphis, Fred C. Arnot of Polo, William C. Rice of Smithville, Harry C. Yates of St. Joseph, James S. Patton of Columbia, James M. Ramsey of Byramville, D. A. Pellard of Calhoun, Henry C. Cave of Lone Jack and Carroll Wisdom of Bowling Green.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchitis, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels. There is a need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for cod liver oil, are gentle on the stomach and easy to take. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should have by keeping the bowels and clearing the system of impurities. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known as "the olive oil of the bowels."

GUARD AGAINST "FLU"

With Muterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Muterole.

Muterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the bad.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Muterole handy for emergencies or to ward off winter illness.

To Mothers: Muterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Muterole. 35c and 65c in jars and tubes.

URGES WOMEN TO BACK SINGLE PEACE PROGRAM

Mrs. Catt Makes Anti-War
Plea to Conference in Washington.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Unity of demand behind a common program for world peace is America's great need of the hour, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, as general chairman, declared in an address today at the formal opening of the conference on the cause and cure of war. "A satisfying way to obtain a feeling of security for all peoples," she said, "is the present greatest need of every nation."

Outlining to the delegates the aims of the conference, called by the national women's organizations, Mrs. Catt said it would study the causes of why solemn compacts between nations to end war have been so long delayed and why the anti-war movement in America lags "so inexplicably." The conference would undertake to formulate an effective program to assist in reviewing these cases.

"Surely this conference," she added, "has no quarrel with army or navy. Let us be the first to appeal to the army, the navy and especially the American Legion, to join in this task."

"There is real danger that the obsolete-minded General, throwing stones at peace makers, and hysterically-minded searchers for peace hurling bitter words in return, may jointly create a barrage of vilification which will obscure the real question and the real movement. When once we stand together—religionists, women and soldiers—it will not be long ere law will replace war and courts be substituted for battle fields."

The conference should not approach the question, Mrs. Catt declared, with discussion of the horrors of war and argument as to "whether or not it is possible to abolish it," but with the conviction that "war is a relic of barbarism whose abolition should have been achieved years ago."

As to many peace plans suggested to the conference in the various forms of poetry, song, prayer, books and legal documents, "their weakness," she said, is "indicated by their apparent failure to have made converts."

A White House reception, which had been arranged for the delegates today, has been postponed until later in the week.

PROHIBITION ACT ATTACKED

A resolution attacking the prohibition act and "condemning the practice of Congress in appropriating funds for the purpose of enforcing any law which tends to curtail the inalienable rights of the citizen" was adopted by the Youth Ward Improvement Association yesterday. A copy will be sent to President Coolidge. The resolution also charges that the prohibition act promotes crime by bringing about a disrespect for law. The meeting adopted a resolution favoring an increase in salary for police officers which will be brought before the State Legislature soon.

BEGGS, Ok., Jan. 19.—A horse sold at auction here for 5 cents. Another horse was "knocked down" for 10 cents and a third sold for 50 cents. These animals were surrendered on mortgages. The livestock auction was started by farmers and stockmen to place stock in the hands of men who would care for it properly.

FLOODS IN THREE SOUTHERN STATES

Several Lives Lost and Much Property Damaged—Train
Plunges Through Bridge.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 19.—Several lives have been lost and large property damage incurred as the result of floods in Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina, caused by heavy rains of the last 10 days. Engineer C. L. Dunham and Yardman T. F. Foster were killed and several persons injured yesterday when part of a Southern Railway passenger train plunged through a trestle weakened by the flood waters of Mulberry Creek, 14 miles from Selma, Ala. The engine, baggage car and three empty coaches went into the stream.

A Nashville, Tenn., & St. Louis passenger train struck a slide six miles from Cartersville, Ga., while en route from Nashville to Atlanta. Engineer V. F. Hietzel was killed and Fireman J. M. Cooper injured. None of the passengers was reported hurt.

When a dam burst at a mill near Fort Valley, Ga., yesterday afternoon, 70 feet of a fill at Moss Creek, on the Central of Georgia Railroad washed away. The northbound Dixie Flyer stopped just before it reached the washout. The train was rerouted to Atlanta and Chicago by way of Columbus, West Point and Newnan.

At Dublin, Fort Valley and other Georgia cities railroad officials reported train service demoralized. At Macon, Ga., the Ocmulgee River reached a stage of 25.3 feet, equalling the highest previous record. A levee below the city gave way.

Residents of Hamburg, S. C., last night were forced to abandon their homes when the Savannah River, swollen, flooded the lowlands and backed up into the town. Water is standing in the main streets of Eufaula, Ala., where the plant of the Georgia-Alabama Power Co. is reported out of commission. The Chattahoochee River is at flood stage. Much land in the vicinity of Eufaula is reported under water.

Several frame buildings along the Warrior River in Walker County, Ala., have been washed away.

All motor traffic between Selma and Montgomery has been halted by the rains. Water stands several feet deep in the Selma-Montgomery highway. The eastern part of Selma is almost entirely under water.

FINAL STEPS TAKEN TO DISSOLVE LEMP BREWING CO.

Only Few Small Parcels of Ground on River Front Remain to Be Sold.

Final steps to dissolve the William J. Lemp Brewing Co., once the second largest brewery in St. Louis, are being taken in pursuance of a decision at a stockholders' meeting last week.

Only a few small parcels of ground on the river front remain to the brewery company and they will be sold as soon as possible. A. H. Kaufmann, secretary-treasurer, said today. When the property is sold the trustees, whose hands it has been placed will divide the proceeds and the charter, franchises and corporate name of the company will be surrendered.

As will be recalled the plant of the brewing company, said to have cost $7,000,000, was sold in June, 1922 for $555,000 to five different interests. The brewery was established in 1840.

$125,000 IN GIFTS TO LEGION To Finance Program Pending Raising of $5,000,000 Endowment.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 19.—Gifts totaling $125,000 enable the American Legion to finance its rehabilitation and child welfare program during the present year, while the $5,000,000 endowment fund for this work is being raised. The gifts came from the Knights of Columbus, which appropriated $75,000 for rehabilitation, and the American Legion Auxiliary and the Forty and Eight, each pledging $25,000 to the child welfare work. Resolutions expressing the Legion's appreciation, are being sent each of the organizations by direction of the national executive committee.

CHENOA DEPOSITORS PROTECTED

By the Associated Press.
BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Jan. 19.—Depositors of the Farmers' State Bank of Chenoa, which was looted of $180,000 by bandits posing as bank examiners Tuesday afternoon, will be fully protected, according to J. Lytle Northrup, State Bank Examiner. The full depositors' liability will be assumed today by the State Bank of Chenoa, following an agreement reached yesterday whereby the State Bank takes over the business of the ruined institution.

The merger was settled on under the supervision of State Auditor Oscar Nelson. The action will keep every depositor from losing money by the robbery, but the owners of the stolen bonds will still be at a total loss.

TAFT'S DAUGHTER IS A MOTHER

By the Associated Press.
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 19.—A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Manning of this city yesterday. Mrs. Manning was formerly Helen Taft, daughter of Chief Justice William H. Taft, and before her marriage was dean of Bryn Mawr College.

Newly Found Extinct Volcano.
PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 19.—A party of geologists, headed by Prof. John Eliot Wolff, authority on petrology, is preparing to visit a newly found extinct volcano in the mountains, 25 miles north of here. According to A. B. Cull, Pasadena geologist, who discovered the volcano on a recent trip in the Sierra Madera range, it is not cone-shaped, like Lassen, still erupting occasionally in the north of California, but is of the split type, in which the earth gapes and spews forth mud and lava.

Now magnesia that's a joy to take

The new way leading doctors now say to take milk of magnesia—mintrated to multiply the benefits of old forms.

HERE is a new form of magnesia—successor to milk of magnesia as you know it.

A scientific development now urged by doctors, dentists and in hospitals.

A magnesia that lacks the "flatness" of old forms.

That is refreshingly delightful to take.

That multiplies the already remarkable benefits of plain milk of magnesia.

That is made in a laboratory of international note and endorsed by highest medical and scientific authority.

Now, as a part of a general movement for better health, fostered by scores of noted physicians, a test is offered free. Simply use the coupon.

What it is and does

The name is Mintrated Cream of Magnesia. It embodies all the benefits of milk of magnesia, plus other important additions.

Its effect is dual. For it not only neutralizes excessive stomach acids, but melts the gas as well.

Thus its effect in "sour stomach," digestive disturbances, etc., is multiplied over old methods.

Stops "sour stomach" in 15 minutes

It relieves "sour stomach" in fifteen minutes.

Eat your fill. Mix your foods. Don't fear gas.

That is where plain magnesia failed. It merely neutralized excessive stomach acids and cleared the bowels. Failed to relieve the stomach of gas.

It acts to neutralize excessive stomach acids. It acts to correct the lack of "acid balance" in the stomach and the bowels, conditions to which 80% of your common daily discomforts now are traced.

It relieves most trying cases of constipation.

It clears the intestinal tract of its poisons.

It combats the absorption into the blood of toxic poisons from the intestinal tract, which keep people below normal and constantly ailing.

It is not habit forming. Even when taken every day.

That is because of its unique composition. A method in safe contrast to habit forming pills and drugs.

It relieves indigestion quickly—amazingly. A delight to take. That is due to its mintrated property. The property no milk of magnesia embodies.

The cool of mint

And this same property gives it the inviting coolness of mint.

Thus it is a refreshing change from the flatness of plain magnesia.

Children love to take it. Every mother knows what that means.

A bottle free—obtain it

In justice to yourself and yours, make the test at our expense.

See for yourself the latest result of modern scientific research for a healthier, better people.

Clip the coupon now before you forget. Present it to any of the stores listed here for free bottle. Do this today.

Man in Jail at Marion, Va., Claims He Can Prove Alibi: Charge Based on Alleged Threats.

By the Associated Press.

BRISTOL, Va., Jan. 19.—Roy Patrick, 27 years old, is held without bond in the Marion (Va.) jail on a charge of being responsible for the collapse of the muck dam at Saltville, Christmas eve, in which 19 persons perished.

Patrick was arrested Saturday morning at Saltville. He asserted he would be able to prove an alibi. The authorities declare they have evidence that several sticks of dynamite had been used to dislodge the mass of lime muck stored in the huge dam back of the town of Saltville and that Patrick had been heard to make threats against the Matheson Alkali Works because of failure to get employment there.

Cleaning Prices Reduced on Women's Clothes !

Again it is Lungstras! Passing on to the public the savings effected by large quantity operation and improved processes.

Last year Lungstras lowered the cost of cleaning men's clothes. This year, Lungstras announces important new economies in the cleaning and dyeing of women's clothes.

Not only are prices reduced. Not only is the "Boil-o-gasolyn" process still exclusively controlled by Lungstras. But a new, simpler and more convenient way of pricing dry cleaning and dyeing has also been devised.

Buy Cleaning and DyeingBy the Inch*—the new Lungstras way

There's no longer any need to bother with getting prices. Before or after a garment is cleaned you can tell with a tape measure just exactly what the bill will be.

Lungstras prices are now figured by the length of each garment. You will find a price list printed in this announcement. If you will cut it out and keep it, you can approximately figure what Lungstras dry cleaning and dyeing will cost.

Compare these new prices with those you have been paying. Take some garment you've just had cleaned. Measure its length. Look up the last price you paid. See the saving you can make under this better, more economical plan.

He Started Life with Thrift

WHEN Benjamin Franklin arrived in Philadelphia a boy of 17, his fortune consisted of a Dutch dollar, and a shilling in copper. He spent threepence for "three great puffy rolls" and started out to seek his fortune.

From this meagre beginning, by rules of thrift and orderly living, Franklin gained wealth and renown. The science of Thrift is summed up in Poor Richard's motto "Spend less than you get."

During Thrift Week, the anniversary of Franklin's birth, this bank invites you to open an account for systematic saving. You can conveniently make small deposits of one dollar or more, and your account will increase regularly with compound interest.

HARVEY, IN PAGE EDITORIAL, ASSAILS PARIS AGREEMENT

Says It Pledges U. S. to "Intervention in Cockpit of Europe" for 50 Years.

By CHARLES MICHELSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Revolt of the irreconcilable group in the Senate against the Paris agreement dividing funds accruing from Germany under the Dawes plan, which they believe involves the United States in all future complications over reparations collections, without even giving this country the full amount of its claims, may have its effect on the confirmation of Ambassador Kellogg as Secretary of State.

The Johnson resolution, calling on Secretary Hughes for the text of the compact, is to be added to in the Foreign Relations Committee. Finance Minister Clementel of France, Premier Theunis of Belgium and Chancellor of the Exchequer Churchill of England, all having explained they agreed to let the United States have 24 percent of the Dawes annuities in order to get this nation into the reparations proceedings, the Senators mean to ask that Secretary Hughes explain why he signed an agreement which Col. George Harvey, former Ambassador to England, has described as pledging the United States to "intervention in the cockpit of Europe at the instance of others in the next 50 years, stalled, if you please, in a corral, horse-high and hog-tight."

Break With Coolidge.
Harvey apparently has broken with the Coolidge administration over the Paris agreement, by which the United States is to get the costs of its army of occupation and satisfaction of the claims of American citizens out of the Dawes plan annuities.

In a page editorial in the Washington Post, headed, "America Duped," which Col. Harvey signed, he arraigned the entire agreement as a successful European plot to involve the United States in the reparation complications for 50 years.

Coming on the heels of the rerudescence of irreconcilable activity in the Senate and the indicated invoking of that provision of the Senate ratification of the treaty of peace with Germany, which prohibits participation by the United States in any commission under the Versailles treaty, unless specifically authorized by Congress, Col. Harvey's proclamation seems to prepare an old-fashioned isolationist row that may approach in bitterness and magnitude the fight against the Versailles treaty.

"It is inconceivable," wrote Harvey, "that a staunch American like President Coolidge could approve an arrangement so utterly opposed to all our country's traditions, principles and practices. But how can he reject without discrediting the nation and, incidentally, repudiating his own Secretary of State? And how could Mr. Hughes, though now virtually superseded, apparently, advise him with propriety to pursue such a course?"

Harvey, of course, knows that both President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes take the position that the United States assumes no obligation, and that its part in the Paris agreement is limited to the acceptance of payment of its occupational army costs and the claims of its citizens in Germany out of the Dawes plan plot.

Bitter-Enders on Committee.
There are several of the old irreconcilable group still on the Foreign Relations Committee, in addition to Borah and Johnson, notably Moses of New Hampshire, Wadsworth of New York and Mc-Cormack of Illinois. The last named member, in view of his possible appointment as envoy to Germany, may not be willing to antagonize the administration.

This leaves the determination of how far the quarrel with the new foreign policy is to go up to the Democrats. There is some division.
Some feel American participation in the reparations settlement—though they do not like the way it was arrived at—is a roundabout way of accomplishing what they sought in the League of Nations.

Others hold the matter has been handled with a view to ignoring the Senate's prerogative as part of the treaty-making power. They further adduce that it involves the return to the owners of the seized alien property, now held as a guarantee for the payment of claims of American citizens, and that a corollary to the agreement by which Germany is to pay these claims in a period of 50 years is that the United States Government must reimburse the American claimants, taking its chances over half a century on getting the money back from Germany.

Senator Reed of Missouri is back in Washington, but he said yesterday he had not yet read the Harvey editorial which really announces the principles on which the fight is to be made. However, nobody doubts how the Missouriian last-ditcher will line up.

WOULD AMEND ST. LOUIS COUNTY REGISTRATION LAW

Senator Ralph to Offer Measure This Week Correcting Defects in the Present Statute.

WOULD TAKE CARE OF ABSENTEES

Clears Conflict of Registration Dates and Proposes Pay Increase for Election Officials.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 19.—A bill to amend the St. Louis County registration law to permit the subsequent registration of persons absent from the county or sick on the regular days of registration, and to correct other omissions and errors in the law passed two years ago, is in the hands of Senator Ralph, of St. Louis County, for introduction in the Legislature this week.

A number of errors were found in the law when it was put in operation a year ago. They were due to confusion and haste in its passage. A bill introduced in 1923 by Senator Ralph took care of the registration of invalids and absentees, but because of the fact that both branches of the Legislature were controlled by Democrats, a bill introduced by Mrs. M. T. Smith of St. Louis County, was taken up for passage in preference to the Ralph bill. It was found necessary by the Elections Committee to rewrite the bill and, in the revision, there were a number of oversights.

Affidavits Required.
The amendment measure to be introduced by Senator Ralph provides that any qualified voter who was more than 40 miles from St. Louis County on the days of registration may, by application to the Board of Election Commissioners for permission to register at least 18 days preceding the next election following the registration days, setting out in an affidavit his qualifications to vote under the law. The affidavit must be supported by the affidavits of two registered voters of his precinct. If failure to register was due to illness, the affidavit of a physician must be filed in support of the application. The board will pass upon such applications the third Monday preceding the election. Other proposed changes in the law are:

Disqualification of soldiers and marines is stricken from the law to conform to the recent constitutional amendment.

Permission is given the Election Commissioners to include in a precinct within a municipality, territory lying outside the municipality if such territory contains not more than 150 registered voters. This will permit the commissioners to avert the expense of having such voting precincts for Washington University and a small strip of first legislative district adjacent to University City, necessary under the present law, and considered a useless expense.

Makes clear that judges and clerks of election are exempt from jury duty for the full time for which they were appointed.

Conflict in registration dates is removed. The present law fixes the date for a second registration at a time which is later than the final revision of the lists. The proposed change is that the first day of registration shall be on Tuesday six weeks before each presidential election, the second day of registration on Wednesday immediately following, and the third day of registration on Saturday of the next week.

Pay Increased.
The present provision requiring that an applicant for registration shall, on the day of registration, be more than 21 years old, and shall have resided in the State one year and the county 60 days, is changed to require that he shall have possession of these qualifications on the day of the next election.

The Election Commissioners are authorized to pay judges and clerks 60 cents an hour overtime for working after midnight on election day, the overtime period not to exceed six hours.

Increases the salary of each of the Election Commissioners from $1000 a year to $1400 a year.

Paper Output Shows Big Increase.
By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The business of the paper and wood pulp industry of the United States amounted to $967,348,952, in 1923, which is shown in the biennial census of the Department of Commerce to represent an increase of 35.8 per cent over the 1921 production. The total output of paper of all kinds in 1923 was 2,629,482 tons, valued at $212,569,171. Increases of 47.8 per cent and 25.7 per cent, respectively, over 1921. Wood pulp production increased to 2,769,172 tons, which was 21.7 per cent greater than in 1921.

By RICHARD L. STOKES.
BX NO means subtle, but rather amusing sarcasms at the expense of cinema practices enliven "Merton of the Movies," in which a large audience at the American last night seemed to find considerable relief. This vociferously named comedy is based on a novel by Harry Leon Wilson, which was telescoped into stage form by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly, authors of "To the Ladies" "Dulcy" and "Beggars on Horseback."
 Merton Gill, a young bumpkin clerking in a store at St. Louis, Ill., is so rustic as to believe everything he reads in the movie magazines. When Beulah Baxter, "the wonder girl of the silver screen," is made to say in an interview that she performs all the perilous feats of her thrillers in her own person, he is not deceived. He is, however, deceived by employing a double, Merton has no doubts. When Harold Farnham, a he-beauty of the screen, is quoted as declaring that he owes his success to incessant struggle and sacrifice, Merton believes that too.

A Yaboo in Hollywood.
 The film-struck yokel finds his way to Hollywood, filled with ideals of uplifting the screen, and suffers one disenchantment after another. Beulah Baxter does not do a double. When Harold Farnham is an insufferable imbecile. Having failed at his first chance before the camera, Merton would have starved had it not been for the Montague Girl, one of the actors who succeeds in turning him into a comedy star in his own despite. No doubt she sensed in him a properly stupid and docile husband.

There is supposed to be pathos in the disillusionment of generous and high-minded youth, and the vibrator is used when Merton discovers that he has been duped into performing in one of those loathsome, farcical comedies. In short, the authors have overreached themselves, as they did in "Dulcy," and a character intended as humorous and touching becomes merely a caricature. This is not to be evident if Glenn Hunter did not disguise Merton's low mental index with his own personal charm and infectious smile.

"Best Pal, Severest Critic."
 Merton himself does not grieve long over his top-of-the-world or the fact that his earnest efforts at noble acting proved to be uproarious comedy. All he needs to be told is that the Cross-Eyed Man is a mere clown, while his friend is sane. His vanity strikes upon a distinction as a defense mechanism, and he reconciles himself to the fate and income of a star. As the curtain falls, he is giving an interview over the telephone to a movie magazine. He announces his engagement to the Montague Girl and adds with a portentous air of originality that "she is my best pal and, I might add, my severest critic."

It is not the tribulations of Merton but the scenes in Hollywood which form the play's attraction. Last night's audience was diverted by a movie director who was screening "Robinson Crusoe" without having read the book, and who was followed by a violinist to give him inspiration. There was fun also in the bookkeeping of an emotional actress who was registering grief for the camera, and in the stilted affectations of Harold Farnham. The most successful box office occurred when Merton, in awe, asked a sophisticated lady at the Holden Studio whether Beulah Baxter did not make many sacrifices to get where she was. "Til say she did," was the significant reply.

Wilson's novel, as we remember it, was a highly satirical feat of humor. The Messrs. Kaufman and Connelly have dismembered it for their play. And for a place in the history of cinema, we owe to Merton's prayer beside his bed on the eve of his journey to Hollywood.

Channing Pollock's "The Fool," Is Played in Stock at Empress.
LIFE is all so simple! You just believe it. And millions of people have long oppressed labor desires an eight-hour day and give over half the profits to their workmen. Ignorant immigrants become educated Americans and invent wonderful things without knowing them; sniveling petty thieves are suddenly men of honor and self-respect; soiled doves are transformed to "honest women," and flirtatious matrons emerge from self-centered shells as "mother Sisters of Mercy." That is the thesis of Channing Pollock's play, "The Fool," which is offered in stock by the Woodward players at the Empress this week, and which

SONNETS OF THE STREETS.

Streets are but avenues of thought.
 A garden to the abstract mind, to whom Steel structures which embrace the clouds loom
 As refreshing to his soul as brought To the man with the breeze when his field is caught
 By some rhythmic breeze and set to sensuous dance.
 Streets, too, are but a crop by chance
 Raised by all the skill the years have taught.
 Watered by ambition, planted brick by brick,
 Until a short cut becomes a path, a path
 in turn
 A lane, then grows a by-road, soon we learn
 The seedling is a street and peopled thick!
 Then the architect leans on his mental hoe
 to sigh
 His thanks, that this, his crop, has been laid by. MARLOWE BAILEY.

Everybody knows what the difference between civilized and uncivilized communities is, but in an illustrated talk in Mexico before the local Chamber of Commerce the other day Charles E. Sharpe made the distinction a little more graphic than most of us have it in mind. He first showed a picture of one of the armored trucks in which money is sent from bank to bank in the civilized community of St. Louis, and then he showed two peasants without armed convoy of any sort carrying a couple of sacks of bullion from one bank to another in the uncivilized community of Guadalajara.

Out walking on Sunday, a resident of St. Louis encountered something new in the vernacular. He saw for rent signs in a colored district, and asked if people were moving out of the district. He was told that failure to keep the property in repair had caused the vacancies, and his informant said something not altogether flattering about the owner of the property.

"Does he own all this quarter?" the gentleman asked.
 "All excusis" that double flat," answered his colored informant, indicating a building in the row.
 Thinking he might not have heard correctly, the gentleman said:
 "One landlord just about owns the district."
 "All excusis" the double flat," said the colored man. So there was no doubt about it. The double flat was excused.

Sir: There was once an ecstatic who cried out for Oregon's tallest fir—to be dipped in Vesuvius' fiery lake, that he might inscribe in letters of fire upon the sky in darkest midnight: "Down went McGinty." That ecstatic we may hope has gone to a bourne where ecstasies are constant and sane. But the ecstasy remains. It is found where the attempt is made to get a forward sweeping republic to reverse itself, to sacralmentize a brain-blighting indulgence, to reinstitute a social ethic already dead and damned.

They may not be wholly mistaken who choose to die ecstasically. But the republic seems by this time to have chosen repeatedly to live: if it must, prosaically.

AT THE ANTHROPOLOGICAL LECTURE.

In the earlier part of his address he gave a brief sketch of the theory of the development of the human race from the ape, using this as an explanation for his later comments, and declaring that "among scientists there is not the least doubt as to the truth in the findings of science with regard to the evolution of the human race from per-sursers among the anthropoid group!"
 Globe-Democrat.

The editor of a nearby paper once received a very fine chicken, which he, supposing to be a token of appreciation from a discriminating reader, took home and enjoyed for dinner. The following day he received this letter: "Dear Editor: Yesterday I sent you a chicken in order to settle a dispute which had arisen here. Can you tell what the chicken died of?"—Craig (la.) Independent.

Big Spring, in Carter County, on one of the new Missouri State park sites, is said to have a flow of 445,000,000 gallons of water per day, which ought to help solve the problem of where we would get all the water in case everybody decided to drink it.

COOLIDGEISM.
 Though Mr. Hughes resigned on Jan. 10 and so dated his letter of resignation, Mr. Coolidge answered under the same date with this: "Your favor of recent date," etc. About all we can say is that it could hardly have been more so.

A dealer in angle worms at a fishing resort near Dowagiac, Mich., was not sure of his spelling. So on one side of his sign he put:

Fish Worms
 That did not look right, so on the other side he moved the following amendment:

Fish Worms
 Of course, neither side had it.

Mr. I. a Chinese student at Johns Hopkins, is said to have the shortest name in the world. It is not merely a name of one letter, but that letter is the thinnest in the alphabet. No wonder T. R. had it in for the Chinese.

WHEN OLD AGE COMES.
 When old age comes and rattles at my gate
 To tell me that my day is almost done,
 Must I with folded, idle hands await
 The setting of the sun?

Must I be feeble, useless, all ambition gone?
 Will time hold naught for me but endless day?
 Lord, give me faith and strength to "carry on!"
 When old age comes my way!

PUBLIC OPINION

DEMOCRACY AND DICTATORSHIP.

DEMOCRACY AND DICTATORSHIP is a book with as much difficulty as oil and water. On Dec. 20, last, Mussolini surprised his opponents and rolled many of his followers by announcing his intention to dissolve Parliament and call another general election, this time under the old law instead of the measure which had been designed to give advantage to his party. Mussolini so sure of himself that he could stake his position on a democratic election, or was it that he recognized that his day was over and was seeking a safe exit? We may never know, for it is highly unlikely now that the proposed election will take place. Since the announcement Mussolini has been attacked both in front and behind. Many of his Fascist followers have cheerfully, enthusiastically, expostulated. The opposition has vociferously assailed him, making especial capital of the Cesare Rossi memorandum. In these notes Rossi, now in jail because of the murder of Matteotti, has numerous specific crimes at the feet of the Fascists. So when Parliament met on Jan. 3 Mussolini returned to his most familiar and dictatorial manner, assuming all responsibility for the acts of his followers and promising to "resolve the political situation" within 42 hours. His words were followed by the most rigorous press censorship.

THE CROSS-WORD PUZZLE.

From the Manchester Guardian.

THE world is a puzzling place, but man is not to be deterred from the delight of additional and self-inflicted bewilderment. At one time he found his pleasure in the manipulation of bits and pieces in a jig-saw. Then came the more intellectual diversion of acrostics. Now we are asked to revel in an import from America called "cross-words." The acrostic in its turn must have done valuable work for the public society, since the more obscure names of the Old Testament have a knack of beginning and ending with vowels that otherwise defy the puzzle-maker, while they are also fairly hard to remember. The new pastime must be a great comfort to the salesmen of dictionaries, glossaries, and the like, and the old complaint that the average man's vocabulary is limited to some 500 or 600 words out of the treasury that is open to him may be dissipated by the present quest of verbal oddities. The complete "cross-word" enthusiast is led up hills of chemistry and into dales of botanical grammar, and he quite sure where the species "adverb" begins and ends. The thing beneath the word need not amuse him; it is the raiment of letters that he sees, and he must be sure to get them in their proper order.

TRAPPED BY FACTS.

Col. Harvey has broken with the administration. He denounces our participation in the Paris agreement on the allocation of German reparations as a surrender of our principles and policies. Our aloofness is gone. In signing this "atrocious agreement" we have leaped "into the cockpit of Europe." Ambassador Kellogg and Col. Logan were duped by the wily diplomats of the Old World. In endorsing the action of our representatives President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes were also befuddled.

In a sense Col. Harvey is right. There is no question about our having reversed our policy. But Col. Harvey is wrong when he says we have been duped and outwitted by the diplomats of Europe. We have, on the contrary, been trapped by the impracticable, impossible and false policy we have attempted to pursue with reference to the settlement of war claims.

We refused to be party to the Versailles treaty, electing to negotiate a separate treaty with Germany, but insisting upon retaining all our rights under the Versailles pact while sloughing off every obligation.

We have tried to do the same thing in the settlement of reparations as provided by the Paris agreement, which is predicated on the Dawes plan. This time it would not work. The other nations would not stand for it. If we were to profit by this bargain we would have to take our share of the burden. That was the ultimatum laid down to Mr. Kellogg and Mr. Logan. They were told to sign without reservation or not sign at all. They signed.

So we are back in Europe. We have returned somewhat furtively, to be sure, and under compulsion, but, anyhow, we have returned. And that was inevitable, soon or late. Our chartered isolationists, such as Harvey, Hiram Johnson and a few others, may rant as they will, but isolation has played out its string.

This belated reversal of policy does credit both to our honor and intelligence, viewed strictly as a business proposition. We have a big stake in Europe—a stake that runs into billions. We insist that those billions be paid. But if our debtors are to pay us they must collect from their debtors. In that collection we have got to take our part. In any private business transaction there would be no question as to what a creditor, situated as we are, could and would do. And certainly the same obligations of honorable custom that obtain in business are binding among nations, or ought to be. Further, that is the prudent, practical course for us.

The absurd notion we have set up that there is no connection between reparations and debts must be abandoned and, indeed, has at last been abandoned. If we are going to collect our debts we must help our debtors to collect theirs.

That is the European problem and our connection with it from the cold standpoint of business. From the standpoint of enlightened statesmanship and peace and prosperity of the world every consideration in the calendar commands us to adopt the course upon which we have finally set out.

THE LAUREATE OF BACTERIA.

We have been all wrong about the microbe. He is not a bad sort. Often than not he is a jolly good fellow. He has a capacity for true and valuable friendship. Oh, there are vicious characters among them, real gangsters who fairly delight in bumping us off. But that criminal element is a minority. Most of the microbes are admirable chaps who get their pleasure in fighting the wicked brethren, thus prolonging our lives and adding incalculably to our happiness.

This information is given to us by Dr. Kendall of Washington University. The doctor knows what he is talking about, or ought to. For, as professor of bacteriology in W. U.'s medical school, the microbe may be said to be the doctor's dish. Anyhow, it is not for us to question or demur. When we find ourselves wronging any of the fauna or flora through ignorance and prejudice and foolish superstition, we welcome enlightenment and quickly reverse our attitude. Henceforth, then, when we meet a microbe we shall be affable and gracious. That does not mean that we shall be boisterously familiar, that we shall slap the microbe on the back, inquire about his golf game and listen patiently to his miserable excuses or his preposterous boasting. There will be a certain reserve in our demeanor, but our old offishness, hauteur and snobbish superiority will be happily discarded.

Dr. Kendall has changed our opinion of the microbe—of his purpose and part in the scheme of things. May we confess, however, that we do not go the whole distance with the doctor? It is thoroughly Shavian and, therefore, interesting to hear about the microbe's historical performances: how it was the microbe, in person, who toppled the Greece of Pericles and Imperial Rome, and scrambled other dynasties and eras for which the annals, until now, have given him no credit. But as history's star Rewrite Man George Bernard Shaw is pretty much of a romancer. And that kindly judgment may, we think, be pondered by Dr. Kendall, the Laureate of Bacteria.

CARLYLE VS. GARY.

"The Constitution, the set of laws, or prescribed habits of acting, that men will live under, is the one which images their convictions, their faith as to this wondrous universe, and what rights, duties, capabilities they have there; which stands sanctioned, therefore, by necessity itself; if not by a seen deity, then by an unseen one. Other laws, whereof there are always enough ready-made, are usurpations; which men do not obey, but rebel against, and abolish at their earliest convenience."

The difference between Thomas Carlyle, who wrote the foregoing, and Judge E. H. Gary, who has been taking a flyer in practical political philosophy, is this: Thomas Carlyle says, "The Constitution that men WILL LIVE under," Judge Gary would say, "The Constitution that men MUST LIVE under." Thomas Carlyle's opinion about the steel industry probably wouldn't amount to much, but in the field of political philosophy he ranks the Judge by somewhat the same ratio as, in music, Richard Wagner ranks Irving Berlin.

A late but blessed reprieve—President Coolidge does not believe flask carriers should be thrown into jail!

Postal Pensions Too Small.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE writer is a former postal worker, having served 22 years as a railway mail clerk with a good record, but at the age of 62 had to retire. At that age a person cannot get work. The Government does not ask if you can live on $60 a month, but we had to take it. While in the service we had to contribute 2 1/2 per cent of our salary to a pension fund and at the present time there is a fund of $42,000,000 in the Treasury at Washington, D. C.; but it seems Congress won't take this money to give us a little better pension which is sadly needed. We had a meeting of some 40 postal employees retired, so I was asked to come to see you. They noticed you had done so much to help the postal employees improve their condition. I left a letter with you from the Secretary of the Treasury Department at Washington, D. C., saying that the annuities were altogether too small.

I wish you could have been at our meeting and seen the conditions of some of the old letter carriers, having sickness in their families. When a man earns a salary he can live, but when you have to depend on $60 a month, and hardly any income, you are in a bad fix. Anything you may do for us toward getting Congress to take up our cause will be very much appreciated by all the old men. Thanking you very much in advance,
 A RETIRED POSTAL WORKER.

Unemployment and Crime.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

READING the various so-called remedies for the prevention of the increasing crime wave, permit me to say that if there was work enough so every man who is now unemployed could have the American right to make an honest living at decent living wages, and food prices, etc., were regulated to conform with wages paid, you would eliminate 75 per cent of all crime.

I say, open up your factories and work of all kinds, so honest men can earn honest living, and see the change in other words. Instead of camouflaged prosperity and poverty, let's have real prosperity and no poverty, as the G. O. P. promised on Nov. 3. E. J. MOORE

A Soldier for Each Blind Pig.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

YOU maintain that prohibition is unenforceable and your editorials are all based upon that view. I feel that you are biased because you feel that it is a man's constitutional right to drink when he pleases. This view on the face value sounds good, but you will not find one brewer in St. Louis who in confidence will not tell you he brought prohibition on through greed. As soon as a convict got out of jail he had a backache if he wanted to work, and the saloons are the cause of prohibition.

Why not advocate the closing of these places, all of whom could not operate unless they violated the law. Make use of the army and place a soldier on guard duty, with special orders not to interfere with legitimate business but to permit no sale of intoxicants. To permit the sale would mean a 10-year stretch to the soldier for direct violation of orders, to start in a few days and not to come to trial in six months or a year.

If this were done the saloonkeeper will see the handwriting on the wall and close his doors of his own accord. Bootleggers would commence to drink the law and the greater part out of business. Prices of liquor will soar and this will automatically stop people from drinking it generally and will give the prohibition department a chance to enforce the law. As it is now, greed is so large that the enforcement agents take chances with their jobs, but cut down the graft.

Prohibition can be enforced—no advocate enforcement.

CITIZEN "X."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

YOUR editorial in the issue of the 15th on "The Letter Killers" should be read and commented by every thoughtful citizen of the State of Missouri. It is vain that we deplore the increase of criminality in the city and in the State if we make no protest against such obstruction of justice.

The writer has long had the desire that there might be wrought in the work of the courts such a revolution as would make the bringing about of simple justice the supreme thing; such a revolution as would make both lawyers and Judges seek for the real intent and purpose of the law, rather than to seek for some trivial technicality such as the failure to do as "it" or to cross a "T" through which the criminal might escape punishment.

Thomas Kehoe, Ex-Convict, Was Freed in Only Trial Resulting From Arrests Made in 1923.

All the charges against the six men indicted in the investigation of the Ford automobile theft ring here in 1923 were dismissed by the State in Circuit Judge Frey's court today because it was believed the evidence was insufficient to obtain convictions or to warrant the expense of trials.

The dismissal was entered by Circuit Attorney Sidener and First Assistant Circuit Attorney Wilson. The latter declared that the one case tried, in which Thomas Kehoe, an ex-convict, was acquitted, was the strongest of all the cases. He pointed out that the State used one of the group of defendants, Sam Mandel, as a witness then, and that Mandel is now in an Indiana State prison for grand larceny. The jury in the Kehoe case apparently discounted the truth of Mandel's story.

The prosecutors declared that information gathered by city detectives in rounding up the band of men who were alleged to have been the automobile thieves was sufficient to locate stolen cars, but not to warrant convictions. It is recalled that records of evidence were not kept accurately, the detectives having confused facts as to various cars recovered, and as a result, when the Kehoe case was called, some of the witnesses present to testify were the wrong ones for that case.

One reason the cases have been kept standing, it is understood, was because it was believed that some of the defendants might plead guilty, but this hope appears to have been abandoned.

Those whose criminal charges were dismissed are: Thomas, John and Frank Kehoe, brothers; Mandel, John Groh and James Vaughn. A number of charges of larceny of automobiles had been pending against Thomas Kehoe; he, Frank Kehoe and Groh were charged jointly with grand larceny in connection with theft of a car; there were five charges of larceny of cars against Mandel and one each against Vaughn and John Kehoe.

GRAND DUKE BORIS GOES TO 'MOVIE' FIRST NIGHT IN U. S.

No Array of "400" Grooms Cyril's Brother-in-Law and His Wife in New York.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—No formal array of the "400" such as launched their sister-in-law, the Grand Duchess Cyril, on her visit to this country awaited the Grand Duke Boris, and his Grand Duchess on their first night here. Instead the Grand Duke joined the Saturday night throng and escorted his Grand Duchess to a moving picture show—a picture about women and love," as he explained yesterday in his suite at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

The cousin of the former Czar laughed at the suggestion that his visit would parallel the reception accorded the Grand Duchess Cyril, and said again that his trip was one of pleasure only, that he had made absolutely no plans, and that he was not here on invitation.

His itinerary he put briefly as follows:

"I shall go to Palm Beach. When I don't know. I would like to go to Chicago. When I don't know. I shall go back to Paris. Sometime, when I don't know."

VESPERS DEFEAT BEN MILLERS, SOCCER LEAGUE LEADERS, 3 TO 2

Rebuilt Ratican Eleven Shows Improvement and Plays Scullins to a Tie

Strong Defense of Vespers Is Deciding Factor in Victory Over Foley's Team, the Contest Being One of the Fastest and Best Played of the Season.

By Dent McKimming.

In spite of the fact that the forwards seldom displayed anything better than mediocre teamwork, the Vespers defeated the leading Ben Miller, 3 to 2, in a furiously fast game at St. Louis University Field yesterday. An impenetrable defense was the deciding factor in the match which was one of the best exhibitions of the St. Louis Soccer League season.

With Al McHenry crossing the ball in wonderful style and the halfbacks playing an effective game, the Ratican club, rebuilt with new material, gained a 2-2 tie with the Scullins in the second game. A crowd of about 2500 watched the games.

So effectively were the speedy Ben Miller forwards covered by the Vesper backs that only one clear shot hit the net behind LaBarge. Fitzgerald's first goal, in the first half, was nearly placed in the corner of the goal, but his second, in the second half, was trapped by LaBarge near the goal upright and was disputed by the Vesper players. Referee Murphy ruled that the ball had passed over the goal line before the guardian intercepted it, but Fullback Hand continued his verbal protests so long that he was chased to the shower baths.

Win With Ten Men.

Then, playing for a period of 15 minutes with only 10 men, the Vespers scored two goals, changing the count from 2 to 1 with the Millers leading. It was during this interval, with Eddie Burke dropping back to fullback and Oster and Fink playing the halfback positions, that the Vesper defense was severely tested. Instead of retreating to their own goal area, Burke and Scott actually came up toward center, forcing the play into the Ben Miller side of the field and Burke gave a great deal of attention to playing the Miller forwards offside. This was not a very difficult trick against Billy Foley's team for, in spite of their advantage in speed, they are very frequently offside.

The most striking difference in play between the two teams was in the control of the ball by the halfbacks. Foley's team were good defenders but they too frequently kicked wildly ahead without heed to direction, thus losing possession of the ball when they had earned the right to start an attack. The Vesper halfbacks usually played precise in feeding the ball to a forward's toe. This little detail changed the entire aspect of the game.

Scott scored first for the Vespers, putting tremendous force on his shot from the penalty mark. The free kick was awarded when a Miller defender tripped Gockel as the latter was about knocking the ball out of goal. Tender Diehl's hands after Sprink had taken a long, looping shot at goal. Late in the game McHenry headed in a long cross from the left wing. Halback Ribby Murphy, in an attempt to prevent a goal, headed the ball as it passed under the crossbar, but McHenry had earned the tieing goal.

Fitzgerald's deft tap to the score and the half ended, 1-1.

The opening minutes of the second period, the Millers attacked furiously. Jim Dunn shot straight into LaBarge's arms and the ball rebounded to Bollam, who

Harmony Expected at Meeting of Players and Officials Thursday

A HARMONY meetings between the committee of four representing the Professional Soccer Players' Association and the board of directors of the St. Louis Soccer and Exhibition Co. will be held at the Coronado Hotel next Thursday evening. It was announced yesterday by Chairman Frank Vaughn of the players' committee.

The players' demands, in part, have been granted by the officials and it is expected that the points of difference will be removed at Thursday's gathering.

hit the crossbar with a hard drive. Again, on the rebound, Mulroy's shot narrowly missed the corner of the goal. Bollam, E. Dunn and Fitzgerald went through again and Fitzgerald's shot to the near corner brought LaBarge down on his knees. The referee ruled a goal. Then Hand was ejected from the game. Great excitement prevailed among players and spectators.

After 20 minutes of play, Tommy White's foul on a throw-in led to a Vesper goal. Scott drove the free kick to Tracy, whose hot shot was deflected to Diaz, who scored the ball bouncing into the goal off the underside of the crossbar.

With the score tied, 2-2, caution was shown to the winds by both sides and the battle became even more vigorous. Ten minutes before the close, Gockel came out of a scrimmage in front of the Miller goal and slammed the ball past Bartlett, winning the game.

Ratican Find Themselves. In the second game, the Ratican were handicapped in the first half by Center Forward Bengel's lack of judgment in handling the ball and starting the attack. His pauses were poorly placed and the first half ended with the Scullins leading, 2 to 0.

Schemel went to center and Bengel to inside left in the second half and the combination worked to better advantage. Schemel was about knocking the ball out of goal. Tender Diehl's hands after Sprink had taken a long, looping shot at goal. Late in the game McHenry headed in a long cross from the left wing. Halback Ribby Murphy, in an attempt to prevent a goal, headed the ball as it passed under the crossbar, but McHenry had earned the tieing goal.

J. Rohrbach and F. Becker rolled into first place in the doubles event of the city scratch tournament on the Washington Alloys yesterday with a total of 1288, 56 pins better than the previous high mark owned by Van Horn and Graham. Both men averaged better than 200, Rohrbach totaling 617 and his partner 671.

This was not the only change in the standings yesterday, as Chick Uhlenstrop rolled into the lead in the singles with 650, which included games of 201, 237 and 242. There were three other totals over 600. L. Miller counted 605, E. L. Hofer 603 and Andy Leicht 601.

In the two-man event, H. Mueller and E. L. Hofer went into third place with 1200. Mueller totaled 642 and his partner 558.

The Budweisers did the best work in the team competition, totaling 2593 for third place. J. Heibel 616 and G. Heibel 591 were the individual stars. The quietest had 2421 for the first two games, but counted only 512 in the final game. The St. Louis Cars moved to seventh position with 2518. The team had a game of 1052, the best of the tourney to date.

17 Teams to Go to Buffalo. At a special meeting of the St. Louis Tenpin Bowling Association held yesterday, it was brought out that 17 St. Louis fives would make the trip to Buffalo for the twenty-fifth annual American Bowling Congress tournament. The 51 St. Louis delegates to the A. B. C. meeting March 19 were selected yesterday.

The local teams to make the Buffalo trip and the dates on which they will follow: March 13—United Bakers and Otto Stein Juniors.

April 4—Cahannes. Wooster Lamberts, Trumbulls, Silver Bells, Witter Razz, Majestic Gardens and Wooster Lamberts No. 2.

The St. Louis Cars also may enter the competition. An effort will be made by officials of the association to obtain a record entry for the city handicap tournament to be held in April. Last season 305 fives competed.

Definite dates were selected for the rolling of the annual city scratch and handicap tournaments to be held in future years. The scratch event will start the second Friday in February and the handicap the second Friday in April. Edge will be received and tournaments awarded the last Sunday in June.

K. of C. Entries Close. Entries to the third annual K. of C. tournament to be held on the Rogers Alloys, starting Jan. 23, have closed with an increase over other years. The various St. Louis teams will be represented by more than 200 quintets. Chicago has entered 44 teams. PIKERS TO MAKE STRONG BID FOR VALLEY BASKET TITLE

Washington's Attack in Oklahoma Contest Equals Best in St. Louis Annals

Team Still Lacks Finish on Defense, but Few Days More of Practice Should Remove That Weakness — Drake Bulldogs Call Here Friday.

Washington University followers see in this year's strong basketball squad a Valley championship possibility, as a result of Friday night's victory over the strong Oklahoma University team, which defeated Missouri University 22 to 15, Saturday.

Washington had a close squeak, but that was because of bungled defense. The Piker attack, which should not occur again this season.

Washington's victory over the veteran Sooner aggregation proves conclusively that the local five is stronger than last year. Oklahoma, with a team left over from last season, was presumed to be stronger than the squad which stopped Washington's rush last year.

The Pikers' victory was less impressive than Nebraska's defeat of the Sooners; but a few more conference games ought to knit Don White's team together more closely.

Kansas, Nebraska and the Kansas Aggies are the teams the Pikers will have to watch.

Pikers Play Drake Friday. Washington will begin preparation today for the game with Drake University at the Coliseum here next Friday night.

Drake is not generally regarded as being as strong as the Sooners, but the Pikers are nevertheless working hard for the Bulldogs. The conference seems to be generally strong this year, and Coach White's men are not taking any chance on being "tripped up" by one of the supposedly weaker teams.

Most of the practice this week will undoubtedly be given to perfecting the defense of the Piker machine, which on several occasions

Ritola Wants to Oppose Nurmi at 10,000 Meters

Thinks He Would Have Better Chance to Win Race at Longer Distance.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Barring the use of a first-class horsewhip, the only possible way to give Paavo Nurmi a beating was uncovered today with a deft from Willie Ritola for a meeting at 10,000 meters, which happens to be Ritola's distance to the fraction of an inch.

Distance Is Too Short.

"I don't want to take anything away from Nurmi's wonderful performance since coming to this country," Ritola said in effect, "but I am not sure that I have given him the best of it in meeting him in comparatively short races. I know I didn't have a chance when I went to the mark with him at 3000 meters at the municipal games. The distance is far too short for me, because I lack Nurmi's speed. Unless he is off form, which he never seems to be, I haven't much of a look with him at 5000 meters, either. Double that distance, however, and I think I will be able to give Nurmi all the running he wants."

This is no idle brag. It is the one distance on the list at which Nurmi has yet to conquer the doubters that he stands supreme to all others. Previous to July 6, 1924, he held the world's record of 20:40-1-5 for the distance, but on the date mentioned Ritola stepped out and won the 10,000-meter race at the Olympic games by 300 yards, bettering Nurmi's mark by about 12 seconds, which is quite a few. Nurmi did not compete in the race.

Hard to Forecast.

Whether Nurmi, great as he is, could have beaten Ritola in that race is a question that has had no solution to this day. The writer is one who would back Nurmi against the field at any distance from a half to 10 miles, yet it is hardly a diplomatic thing to venture that a man who gets 15 seconds under a world's record could have been beaten by anyone.

If Nurmi can follow Ritola's pace over the longer route—and plenty of wise money will say that he can—he will almost certainly run around Willie in the closing laps. But the element of doubt would be there to the end, which element has been nonexistent in Paavo's races to date.

Busy Schedule for Paavo.

Fifteen races on Nurmi's "future book" for the remainder of the indoor track campaign, it developed today.

Most of them are in and around New York, the Finn being averse to traveling far from the Atlantic seaboard.

In addition to tentative engagements on local tracks, Nurmi's list includes possible appearances at the Boston A. A. games, Jan. 31; military games at Buffalo, Feb. 12; American Legion games, Portland, Me., Feb. 13; Georgetown games, Washington, D. C., Feb. 21; Johns Hopkins games, Baltimore, Feb. 23; and the National championships at Louisville, Feb. 24.

DUNDEE AND MANAGER ARE SUED FOR 75,000 FRANCES BY PROMOTER
By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Jan. 18.—Formal complaint against Johnny Dundee and his manager, Jimmy Johnston, for failure to carry out the Dundee-Brettonnel fight, which was to have been held here Jan. 27, has been lodged with the French Boxing Federation by Promoter Boyer, and in addition a suit for 75,000 francs damages was filed today in the French civil courts against both the fighter and his manager.

The "Affaire Dundee," as it is known here, is attracting much interest in sporting circles. The promoters decided to file the suit and complaint against Dundee and his adviser only after they had received a wireless from the captain of the liner Paris, 20 hours out of Plymouth, bound for New York, saying that Dundee was aboard. There was also a message from Johnny himself saying he was sorry that illness in his family made it imperative for him to return to the United States, but that he would come back to fight Brettonnel or anybody else he wanted.

WRAY'S COLUMN

What's in a Name?

TREASURER PHIL RILEY of the St. Louis Soccer League, has an absurd idea that it's all wrong to make the front of a soccer player's uniform like the back of a telephone book—full of advertising.

Phil is a dreamer. He thinks that some day the real purpose of a soccer star will be to furnish football instead of merely to provide advertising. Frontage at 80 much per square foot, cash in hand, to the franchise holder paid.

But Phil is a reactionary. He recalls that in the days of real football players, before they began to sublet uniform acreage for display purposes, the teams bore such names as the St. Leos, the Inniskillies, the Cycling Clubs, the Thistles, etc.

He fails to note that progress has canned all that old stuff and lifted us into a higher realm of pure commercialism, in the matter of soccer nomenclature.

Utility the Watchword.

INNISFAIR, Thistles, Cycling Club, St. Leos—what do they stand for? The old country, a nearly defunct pastime, a school or a parish or something like that.

Useful names are the thing to decorate our national championships candidates with—names like the "Pants Store Co., the 'Scullin-Gallagher Steel and Iron Co., the 'Vesper-Bulck Automobile Co. and the 'Ben Miller Hat Co." These are names to broadcast about the country—so easy to say and so appropriate to the sport—although it's true his downfall began with the loss of $12,000 in baseball bets made with a Des Moines gambler.

Later he was told that the gambler had played him for a sucker and "had several Des Moines players in his room every night."

The same gambling crowd is said to have figured in the 1919 world's series and later to have shifted their operations to the Pacific Coast.

Municipal Soccer League Schedule May Be Extended

Inclement Weather Caused Cancellation of 3 Games—4 Group Titles Won.

One group leader was upset in the Municipal Soccer League games in the public parks yesterday. The Voss club was defeated by the And's in Group Four at Fairground Park, marking the only reversal of form for the day. The And's are in second place.

Unless the Municipal Soccer League Executive Committee, meeting today, should decide that a round of three games which were dropped from the schedule because of inclement weather shall be played at a later date, the group championships at Fairground No. 2, at Manchester Park, Carondelet Park and Fairground No. 4, have been clinched, although in each case only nine games have been played. The St. Matthews, Fairmounts, Koels and Voss clubs are now the apparent group champions.

Fifteen-Game Schedule.

The schedule this season calls for not more than 15 games but the postponement due to bad weather wiped out three weeks' play and thus not more than 13 games can be played unless the Executive Committee votes to extend the season, ordering the postponed games played. Under a league ruling, games called off because of inclement weather are not replayed unless the Executive Committee so orders.

At Sherman Park, the race was tightened yesterday when the Scott-Sullivan went into a tie with the Henses for the lead by defeating the Paulsons, 1 to 0. The Henses were led, having drawn a bye in the five-team league.

NINE YOUTHS ARE IMPLICATED IN MANY ROBBERIES

Arrests Made and Confession Obtained From One of 13 Prisoners After Druggist Resists Holdup.

CAPTURES MADE BY SERGEANT OFF DUTY

Former Inmate of Boonville Reformatory Tells of Participating in Eleven Recent Robberies.

Because a druggist showed fight when two youths tried to hold him up last night and because a Detective-Sergeant, off duty, happened to walk by at precisely the right time, there are lodged in Central District holdover today 13 young men between the ages of 18 and 22.

The two youths ran, and were captured with a third they met in flight. The third youth, who has served two terms in Boonville reformatory, signed a devastating confession. In it he admitted participation in five holdups, and implicated eight men in a total of 11 recent robberies. Five associates with nothing in particular against them were captured in the roundup.

Druggist Resists Robbers.
Robert M. Crook, druggist, at 5411 St. Louis avenue, was chatting with a customer over the cigar counter at 7:30 p. m. when two youths marched in. Detective-Sergeant Eugene Kavanaugh was walking west a block away. One youth pointed a revolver at Crook and said, "Up with 'em!" Crook snapped, "Go to —!" and started for his revolver.

Sergeant Kavanaugh met the pair
as they darted into an alley a block east. He pursued, lost the trail, and later caught three youths hiding behind a United Railways waiting room at Belt and St. Louis avenues. Back at the drug store Crook identified two of the prisoners, who described themselves as Thomas Britt, 20 years old, of 4718 Willowwood avenue, St. Louis County, and Arthur Phillips, 18, of 4508 Edgewood boulevard, St. Louis County. Britt, who was in the penitentiary on a statutory charge until last June, had a loaded revolver. He and Phillips admitted the attempted holdup.

Confession of One Prisoner.
The third prisoner was John Shymanski, 21, of 5012 Alcott avenue. He had not been near the drug store, all three agreed, but under questioning he broke down and poured out the history of a dozen robberies in the general neighborhood of Crook's drug store. He was one of the two men who held up a Cass avenue car conductor, Jan. 10, and who robbed a Hodiamont car conductor about a week before. He was lookout when two men got $133 at a grocery at Lillian and Alcott avenues last month, when two men got $80 at a drug store at Spalding avenue and Kingshighway three months ago, when two men tried to rob the grocery at Marcus and Kennerly avenues, and when two men got $60
at the drug store at Euclid and Natural Bridge avenues.

He named accomplices. Two of them held up a Hodiamont conductor once, two of them robbed a feed store on Natural Bridge avenue last month, and two of them held up a couple in Walnut Park last month, he said.

Denied by Men Implicated.
The men named by Shymanski, as well as others, were arrested. They admit nothing. "If Shymanski says it's so, let him prove it," one of them said. Shymanski has been sent twice to Boonville for burglary. The first time, of a five-year term he served one year, and of the second, a four-year term, he served 15 months, winning a merit parole in February, 1933. Britt was in the State prison three years.

URGES DEFEAT OF CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

Former Senator Thomas of Colorado Asserts It Is Most Radical Invasion of State Rights.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Former Senator Charles S. Thomas of Colorado, urging friends in his old State to defeat the proposed twentieth amendment, declared that "it is the most radical innovation in the form and the nature of our governmental system that the Congress has ever sought to accomplish."

"The eighteenth amendment," declared Thomas, "does not in its terms substitute the Federal for the State. It has concurrent power with the states to enforce the prohibition amendment, but the proposed child labor amendment tolerates no such condition. It does not supplement the State authority but supersedes it altogether."

"It clothes the Congress with unrestricted and exclusive power to limit, regulate or prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years of age. Every effort of the Senate to modify this sweeping delegation of authority was defeated by its proponents."

Four Charming Graduation Frocks

Hazel Bryant

These four charming ideas for the young miss, who hasn't as yet selected her graduation frock, can easily be made at home.
The frock on the extreme left suggests a costume blouse, although it is a one-piece model of satin-back canton. The canton side of the material is used for the upper part of the frock, while the satin side, which is used for the lower part of the skirt, forms a delightful contrast. The trimming consists of ribbon rosettes with pearl centers.

The next frock shows the new high waist line so becoming to the youthful one. Lace fashions the oval yoke and forms tiny cap sleeves.
It is charming made of taffeta.
The third frock is of heavy canton crepe with tight waist and full skirt trimmed with marabou.
The last is a clever combination of silk lace and georgette. Its only adornment is a bunch of white violets.

Daddy and I sat down in one of those cafes, outside, where peo-

you don't look out, and had ice cream, and granadine—that's a kind of fruit syrup with vichy sprinkled into it and it's very good.
I liked Napoleon's tomb. You old ragged flags that were from Napoleon's battles. The tomb is a chocolate-colored shiny granite and is yellow glass in some windows high up to make it look as if the sun was always shining on it.

I think it's nicer to be buried right in the city than way out

it is right underneath the big Arch

Children's Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess

A Bad Time to Be Absent-Minded.

The absent-minded seem to me
Asleep while yet awake to be
To be absent-minded is to be thinking so hard of one thing else. There are times when this may not matter, but there are other times when to be absent-minded is dangerous. It may get you into all kinds of trouble. It is best not to be absent-minded at all.

The great snow storm had been followed a couple of days later by a short, light rain, and then the weather had turned very cold and a crust had formed over the snow. Peter Rabbit was glad of that crust. While the snow had been soft he had not dared leave the dear Old Briar Patch. He and Mrs. Peter had eaten most of the bark within reach. Now on this fine crust he could get over to the Green Forest or up to the Old Pasture or over to the Old Orchard.

Peter decided to go over to the Green Forest. Making sure that the way was clear, he started out littery-littery-lip. As he drew near the edge of the Green Forest
he tried to make up his mind where he would go first. There were several places he wanted to visit. First he decided to go to one place, then he changed his mind and decided to go to another place. No sooner had he made up his mind to this than he thought of a third place and once more was undecided.

"I don't know which place to go to first," said Peter to himself. "I want to go to all three first, but I can't do that and I can't make up my mind which one to choose."

It was then that Peter Rabbit became absent-minded. He was so busy trying to make up his mind that he forgot everything

Hello! There's that sly thief, Reddy Fox. He sees Peter, too.
If I don't watch out he'll get that Rabbit dinner instead of me.
What's the matter with Peter Rabbit anyway? He acts as if he didn't think there was enemy in the world. Well, I can't let Reddy Fox catch him."
With this Hooty spread his great broad, silent wings and flew sore throat

is always a serious matter—
give it continuous antiseptic treatment

"ONLY a sore throat" has been the beginning of many a critical illness—of much long-drawn-out, sick-on-your-feet wretchedness.

For even when sore throat is not the forerunner of an actual disease—influenza, grippe, diphtheria—it is always serious just as sore throat.

The feverish rawness, bad as it is in itself, is worse as an indication that germs are at work sending their poisons throughout the entire body.

Just as soon as you feel the first rawness, start giving it vigorous antiseptic treatment. Don't even wait to get home to use a spray or gargle. And make your treatment continuous—not just a gargle night and morning.

Get a bottle of Formamint,
and every half hour, or hour, dissolve one of the pleasant-tasting tablets in the mouth.

Formamint is the only throat antiseptic of genuine germicidal power, with which you can keep up your fight against the deadly throat germs all day, wherever you are.

As the tablets slowly dissolve, they release one of the most powerful germicidal agents known to science, in a form which is perfectly safe.

Mixing with the mouth fluids, Formamint sets up a germicidal action, which continues all the time the tablet is dissolving and for some time after, and which can be renewed in full force with another tablet—where-ever you happen to be.

This is the most modern, most scientific way to treat sore throat.
To prevent sore throat, to protect yourself when exposed to contagious disease—during epidemics, in crowds, in dusty streets—take a Formamint tablet about every two hours. Ask your druggist.
